

Nursery newsletter

2.10.23

- This week you have all received your unique code to access Seesaw where you can view your own child's observations. Although the observations show under my name, all the nursery staff are making them and uploading as and when they witness points of learning throughout the week. These are only a tiny snapshot of the learning your child achieves, but nevertheless it's lovely tool for parents to have immediate access to 😊
- BTW we have displayed one family photo each on the display board (and returned the extra ones). The children love to refer to their family pictures frequently so we'd like to keep them up until half term

Next week's theme is...Sensational Senses

We will learn about our five senses and how they help us make sense of the world. We will smell smelling pots to identify what's inside them and we will explore textures inside a feely bag and try to describe what we feel. We will also test our listening skills by trying to identify different funny or familiar sounds, and we will explore how it feels to walk with our eyes closed!

Things to do at home this weekend.....

You can help your child to describe what they see, hear, taste, smell and touch. Model descriptive language to them to encourage dialogue and questions.

For Example: I can smell the dinner I wonder what it will be. What does it smell like? What do you think it will taste like?

Can you hear the rain/wind/tap running? What does it sound/look like?

What noises can you hear on the way to school/park? What does a car sound/look like? How does a fir cone/conker/twig/leaf smell/feel/look? What noise do they make as you walk on them?
