

Nursery newsletter

4.10.24

- The children will be making currant buns and jam sandwiches next week so please let us know if your child has any issues relating to these ingredients.
- Please talk to your children about the following week's topic, it makes such a difference to their learning. A big thank you to the handful of families who already do this 😊
- Thursday 10th is Hello Yellow Day, the children wear something yellow £1 donation to the mental health charity
- Thursday 17th October Show Racism the Red Card Day, children wear red £1 for charity
- FYI The Halloween Disco is just for key stage 1 & 2 only
- Please can we have more large twigs, cones or any natural d
-
- cebris to fill up our Bug Hotel 😊
- Half term is 21st to 25th October
- If you happen to have a clear-out of good quality toys, books, children's chairs/tables, dressing up clothes, scarves, handbags, hats, necklaces, etc. over half term we are always happy to take it off your hands!

We were very lucky to have a visit from some rare breed Cayuga ducks yesterday afternoon. It was a very exciting experience for the children!

Next week's Topic: Bread and butter

The children will learn how bread is made and explore it's journey from field to plate. We will also think about all the different types and shapes of breads. We will have a bakers shop in our role play area, and practice 5 currant buns song for the harvest festival. We will bake currant buns to take home, and make our own jam sandwiches independently to eat in nursery.

Things to do at home...

Find out where flour comes from? How is it made?

Count how many different types of bread products your family eat.

Visit a bakers shop/counter to look at all the different types of baked goods you can buy (we will have a role play bakers shop at school next week)